Kentucky Tariff Bill a Source of Dissension Between Senators Dickinson and Letcher.

River Debate and Their Tributes Interrupted Because of the Rush.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 7.—[Special Dispatch to The Tribune.] The Senate Public Lands Committee would like to get through with the Indian affairs of Minnesota and Dakota before adjournment. Senators Chandler, Cragin, Harlan of Wisconsin, Rice, Brayton, and Pratt, four of the principal members of the subcommittee of the committee to whom was referred the Minnesota and Dakota bills, have been in session almost every day for a week past, and expect to be able to report the measure to the full committee in a few days. The bill is a very important one, and will require a good deal of time for its consideration in the Senate. It is not probable that it will be reached before the middle of next week, and it may be delayed much longer than that.

WILL HE SUCCEED OR NOT?

Postmaster-General Campbell, Secretary Guthrie, and other Administration officials, are reported as having expressed to their friends the opinion that Mr. Buchanan will succeed in securing the nomination at Cincinnati. Mr. Campbell is said to have declared that he would not be surprised if Mr. Buchanan received the nomination on the first ballot. Secretary Guthrie is reported as having said that he thought Mr. Buchanan would be nominated on the second ballot. Mr. Guthrie is also reported as having said that he thought Mr. Buchanan would receive the votes of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, California, Oregon, and New Jersey, and that he would receive a majority of the votes of the delegates from the States of Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Florida, and Delaware. Mr. Guthrie is also reported as having said that he thought Mr. Buchanan would receive the votes of the delegates from the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and Virginia, and that he would receive a majority of the votes of the delegates from the States of Kansas and Dakota. Mr. Guthrie is also reported as having said that he thought Mr. Buchanan would receive the votes of the delegates from the States of Kansas and Dakota. Mr. Guthrie is also reported as having said that he thought Mr. Buchanan would receive the votes of the delegates from the States of Kansas and Dakota.

The Overissued Paper Currency of Chicago Banks a Voluntary Assignment.

A Bid Tried to Cover the Worthless Paper Which Has Run a Little Too Small.

Condition Statement of 1855 and Present Ratio of Liabilities Thus Far Ascertained.

Failure of the Consolidated Paper Company of Chicago.

The Consolidated Paper Company, which, for the benefit of all parties of course in engaging paper, made a voluntary assignment yesterday to Solomon S. Foster, of Brockport, Ill., for the benefit of all its creditors, have been in existence for a number of months, but, according to the statement of the managers of the company, the business with consequent decline and fall has been done within the last few months. This latter condition of affairs was not even commonly commencing a month ago, and the bulk of the business of the company was done within the last two months. The cause of the failure is owing to the fact that the paper which they have manufactured has not been taken up by the parties to whom it was consigned, and the consequence is that the company has been unable to meet its liabilities. The assets of the company are said to be very large, and it is thought that the creditors will be paid in full. The assets of the company are said to be very large, and it is thought that the creditors will be paid in full.

The First National Bank of Chicago has made this to the extent of $50,000, and another city bank to an amount not known at present. Both are fully secured by their assets. LITERATURE.

Armitage's Lectures on Painting to the Students of the Royal Academy.

Dr. Brace's "Home in England and America"—Hubbell Life of Rev. Atkinson.

Summary of the War of the Rebellion—Latest Catholic Sermons—Other Topics.

Gambling and Forgetting.

Among the works of William H. Rideing which Messrs. Scribner, Welford & Co. announce for publication in the forthcoming "Library of American Literature" is a book on gambling. The author is a writer of considerable power, and has given much attention to the subject. He has written, though not published, several novels on gambling themes, and has made a study of the vice in all its phases. His book will be a collection of stories and sketches, illustrating the disagreeable consequences of gambling, and showing how it affects all classes of society. Mr. Rideing has had many opportunities for observing the workings of the gambling spirit, and has had a wide experience in literature. His book will be a valuable contribution to the literature of the subject, and will be read with interest by all who are interested in the question.

Dr. Brace's Book on the War.

Dr. Brace's book, "Home in England and America," is a collection of letters written during the Rebellion, principally to the Times, which first attracted attention to the author by their vigorous and able support of the Union cause. The letters are now republished in book form, with additions, and will be found interesting reading. Dr. Brace's views on the questions of the day are well worth attention, and his book will be found a valuable addition to the literature of the war.

Recent Publications.

Messrs. White, Stokes & Allen, of New York, have recently published a quarterly journal called "The Church Quarterly." Mr. Gallaher is the editor of the publication, whose high tone and literary excellence should secure for it a wide circulation. The first number contains articles on "Church Building," "Church Music," "Church Unity," "The Church and Science," "The Church and Education," "The Church and Politics," "The Church and Literature," "The Church and Society," and "The Church and Missions." The articles are all written by able men, and the publication will be found a valuable addition to the literature of the Church.

Messrs. Scribner, Welford & Co. announce for publication in the forthcoming issue of their "Library of American Literature" a volume called "Curious and Interesting Facts in the Conversation of Long and Short Words," by Alexander Melville Bell. The book will be a collection of curious facts in connection with the use of long and short words in the English language, and will be found interesting reading. The author is a well-known writer on philological subjects, and has had a wide experience in the study of the English language. The book will be published in a uniform style with the other volumes of the "Library of American Literature."

New Medical Literature.

Dr. Frederick Lewis Bates, Professor of Medicine in Yale College, has published two books of interest to medical readers, under the titles of "Brain in Health" and "Brain in Disease." The latter being intended for a text-book on the subject, and the author claims that it is the first work of the kind published in this country. The volume on Diseases of the Brain is a valuable addition to the literature of the subject, and will be found interesting reading. The author is an officer of the Yale College, and has had a wide experience in the study of the diseases of the brain. The volume on Diseases of the Brain is a valuable addition to the literature of the subject, and will be found interesting reading. Cincinnati, 25c premium.
New Orleans, 50c premium.

The "Liquor Dealers' Journal" says: "The Chicago Board of Trade has been the scene of a great deal of excitement during the week, and the fluctuations in prices of provisions have been unprecedented. Prices have been subject to sudden changes and violent fluctuations, and the market has been in a very unsettled condition. Traders in provisions and the country generally have been unable to form any reliable opinion as to the future course of prices, and have been afraid to operate. Prices have been subject to manipulation, and the market has been in the hands of speculators. Values have been advanced and depressed at will by the leading operators, and the market has been in a very unsatisfactory condition. Buyers and sellers have been unable to get together, and the market has been practically suspended. Prices have been subject to

THE TRIBUNE PRIZE STORY.

The Authorship of "The Fly-Shore."

The literary sensation of 1883 was "The Fly-Shore," a novel of contemporaneous interest, by some approving writers to be Underwood dear Ogden. It was a story of considerable force and originality, but not one word did Underwood, the Shakspeare from Spectacle, though of Indian poetry, know, and the flying was of a peculiar kind indeed. In short sensations, nothing that has yet appeared equals the air of mystery which surrounded the origin. The public, ignorant of the identity of its author, speculated in vain. The critics of each of the States and cities undertook to ingeniously in unbecoming the secret. The publishers took great pleasure in advertising that they knew, but could not tell. The author himself, by the judicious manner in his anonymity, made all the generally known to be connected in the matter the secret.

The editors of the New York Press, who had promised to reveal the author's name, were compelled to confess that they did not know. Mr. Howells, of Harper's, with the San Francisco Argonaut, which had published the story in instalments, declared that he
